AN EPIDEMIC FEARED

Typhoid Fever Promises to Come Down the River.

DANGER IN DAVIS ISLAND DAM

The Sewage of a Territory Containing 500,000 People Almost, Will Come Flooding Down the River When the Wickets are Raised, and Liverpool Will Get the Benefit—One Remedy Suggested.

Unless some miraculous power, exercising close watch upon the destinies of the city, provides ways and means to prevent it there will be a visitation of typhoid before the year is over, and the grim reaper will doubtless claim his share of victims.

This is a strange statement to make at this time, for the city was never in a more healthy condition than at present. So far as is known there is not a sufferer from fever in town, and few if any, people are ill. The diphtheria scare has not even amounted to a scare since the only patient is now well on the way to recovery and there is not unusual danger for a spread of the disease. Coughs and colds may bother the youth and maid who stand too long by the garden gate or swing to late in the commodious hammock, but beyond these trifles there is a painful, to the doctors, absence of sickness, and the city is as healthy and robust as a country maiden. But there is danger in the air. At present it is only a small cloud on the horizon, but it will not remain long in that condition. The natural process of development will increase it to a full-blown thunder cloud, and a storm of sickness will break over the city.

The idea was advanced by a physician as he, another doctor and the newspaper man talked of the good health of the city, and the manner in which he put his argument not only brought frequent nods of approval, but convinced the newspaper man that there was danger in the future. He based his argument upon the condition of the river. For months it has been little more than a creek, a ribbon of clear, sparkling water that lost its beauty and changed its color immediately after every dash of rain the parched country has had these many months. During all this time the sewage from dozens of towns along the river has been washed into the stream, and then sluggishly moved toward Cairo and the Mississippi. But Liverpool has been getting very good water. The wickets at the Davis Island dam have been down, and the sewerage and filth from cities with a population of no less than half a million souls have been washing that way. The bottom of the Pittsburgh harbor is one festering mass of disease, the germs writhing and twisting in the muddy water ready and anxious for the first rise to sweep them down the river. For months the sewers of Pittsburgh, Allegheny and the south side have been emptying their wealth of garbage into the river. This has piled up in the harbor and floated down against the dam until there is a vast quantity of it waiting for a few rains to send it toward the towns and cities below, and that is not all. The dirty alleys and courts of these places have their stock of dried up filth, and when the rain comes, it too will float away, and some of the deadly concoction will stop in its downward course at the intake pipe of the water works. The great engines will draw it upward, and it will float complacently in one or both of the reservoirs. Then it will be distributed through the city. Every family patronizing the water department will get its share of the devilish stuff. Where now they are provided with water that is not dangerous, if it is not as good as it might be, they will probably get the filth of Allegheny county through the pipes. Then will come the harvest. Typhoid will break forth in a dozen different places, the doctors will have a harvest, there will be a lot of talk of a pure water supply, suggestions will be made without number, the epidemic will gradually run its course, the sick will recover, and the city will sink back into the position it holds at present until the same course will produce the same result, and the scene will be re-enacted.

That is the story the physician told, and he told it as one with understanding. When asked what was to be done to prevent it he could do nothing but shake his head. The people can not all drink water from wells, for there are not a sufficient number of wells in town to supply the demand, and even if there were the water, with the topography of the country, could not be counted upon as pure. The board of health have in a measure provided for the emergency by lessening the causes of typhoid in the city. People have been compelled to connect their properties with the sewers and more will be brought into line before the year is ended. The danger from typhoid, they say, can be lessened by boiling the water used, and perhaps the visitation will be prevented if this system is carefully carried out. From the grave manner in which the gentlemen discussed the situation and the remarks from one that this seemed to be a year of typhoid epidemics, several instances being cited, the representative of this paper could not deny that they were in earnest, and meant every word they said.

MERRY ANGLERS

And Their Guests Had a Royal Time Last Night.

The East Liverpool Angling club held a reception last night at Grand Army hall, and those who were so fortunate as to be present will heartily coincide with the statement that it was indeed a "feast of reason and a flow of soul." Alex McGraw held the berth of chairman and delivered an address of welcome to the invited guests, responded to by a gentleman of German extraction, whose name we were unable to secure, although we heard he whispered that he was a first cousin of Hank Hohenzollernsche, whose castle is on the Rhine. Music, mirth and reminiscences of the late camp on the shores of the beautiful Potomac river held sway for some length of time, and then the bugle was sounded for the feast. And such a feast. The ladies in charge of the culinary department must have vied earnestly with each other in seeing who could secure the greatest variety of substantial and delicacies, and the result was indeed a rich treat.

After supper, service of song and camp reminiscences were resumed, and the fish stories related would have set Isaac Walton crazy with envy. One prominent citizen, well known for truth and veracity, gave a harrowing and blood curdling description of his enforced absence from camp on one occasion, being compelled to make his way to camp through the blackness of darkness, with grizzly bears inhabiting the mountain fastness on one side, and ferocious wild cats, panthers and catamounts in the dismal swamps on the other side of the road. He is still suffering from acute nervous prostration in consequence.

Providence permitting, the club will go into camp again next season, but the wives and daughters and sweethearts of the members will accompany the expedition, and will see to it that a ground is selected where wild beasts of the forest do not roam about, seeking whom they may devour.

It was after midnight when the jolly party dispersed, after rendering an appropriate selection of song and returning a vote of thanks to General Lyon post for the use of the hall.

WEDDED IN WELLSVILLE.

Rev. J. A. Selby and Miss Oocy May Michaels Married.

The marriage last evening of Rev. J. A. Selby and Miss Oocy May Michaels was the notable society event of Wellsville for the year. The Methodist Protestant church was beautifully decorated for the event, and the auditorium was crowded as the bridal party, preceded by Ralph Conn and Miss Ester Davidson, walked down the aisle. The bride was dressed in a beautiful gown of white silk and carried white roses, while the handsome veil almost concealed the orange blossoms in her hair. The ceremony was carried out by Rev. S. S. Fisher, a former pastor of the church, and the bridal party were then driven to the home of the bride, where a reception was held. A number of Liverpool friends of the bride and groom were present. Haines' band was also there. Reverend Selby left this morning for Connellsville, where he will attend conference and upon his return the happy bride and groom will take their wedding journey.

BOTH EYES GONE.

Doctor Henderson Will Recover, But Will Probably Be Blind.

Dr. George A. Henderson, who was shot in the face by the accidental discharge of a gun at a fishing camp near Wellsville, several days ago, is improving slowly at the West Penn hospital, Pittsburg. His condition generally is such that his recovery is assured, but the attending physician says they are not certain that they will be able to save the sight of either eye. At present the outlook is unfavorable, but every effort will be made to save one of the injured eyes.

The Hammondsville correspondent of the Wellsville Union claims that the shooting was the result of an affray, and the matter was quieted at the request of interested parties. No one would give the name of the party who fired the shot.

HUGGED BY A BIG BRUTE

The Awful Experience of a Young Girl.

SEIZED IN THE STREET

By a Man Who Was Frightened Away and Ran Like a Deer When Pursued by Watchman Potts and Tom Smith—The Young Woman Was Shocked.

The man who spends his leisure time in mixing with crowds and cutting the dresses of women who never know he is around is superseded by the brute who stops young girls on the streets at night and hugs them.

Late last night a young woman scarcely more than a girl was walking near the Buckeye pottery on her way home, when a man stepped out of the shadow and stood in her way. He was a big fellow, but beyond that she could tell nothing about him, for he had not stood there a second before he gathered the girl in his brawny arms, and pressing her close to his breast gave her a bear like hug. It was all over in a minute, and the man was flying down the street, and the girl stood on the pavement shrieking for help. Watchman Potts heard the screams, and running to her assistance discovered the cause of the trouble. He saw the man fleeing and accompanied by Tom Smith, who happened to be near, chased the fellow to the vicinity of Tim Burns' saloon, where he disappeared. The pursuers have a well developed suspicion that they know the fellow. The young woman was not hurt, but she received a severe shock and went home very much frightened.

The occurrence last night brings out the statement that a married lady residing in Bradshaw addition experienced a similar assault a few months ago at the Horn switch. She had an umbrella, and the nerve to strike the fellow over the face, compelling him to run.

THEY CALL HIM DINKEY,

But His Name Is Miller and He Wears Good Clothes.

As Bert Irons, the wheelman, was fixing the tire of his wheel in Monaca yesterday, he saw Dinkey Miller, the chap who was accused of stealing Ret Meador's watch from the Anderson House, go by. Irons dropped the tire and followed Miller to Alliquippa where he was convinced of the man's identity by a good look at him, and had him arrested. Anderson was notified by wire, and going to Beaver identified the man which result in the incarceration of Miller in the Beaver jail.

When the sheriff had him he refused to release him without requisition papers, and Chief Gill has been trying to convince them all day that they are making a mistake, for the requisition will certainly be taken out. Miller was flashily dressed, and had several packages at the hotel where he stopped, and it is believed the watch is among them.

AN EXALTED POSITION.

Mr. J. G. Kerry Goes to a Canadian University as Lecturer.

Mr. J. G. Kerry, the gentleman who has made this city his abiding place because of his connection with the bridge company for more than a year, will leave on Thursday for Montreal, Can. Mr. Kerry has taken a position in McGill university, the leading educational institution of the Dominion, and will lecture on astronomy and surveying. His high attainments and personal character especially fit the gentleman for this class of work, and his friends in this city well know that as college professor Mr. Kerry will be a pronounced success. Mr. Kerry will retain his interest in the bridge company, although his connection will not be active and he hopes to return for a brief visit next summer.

NO CHANGE.

First Avenue in East End Will Remain As It Is.

The councilmen who were appointed to view First Avenue in East End and decide upon the future course of the stream failed to appear at the right time, and Engineer George visited the place alone. He found that people there have been busy laying sidewalks and did not feel like changing them now that the walk was done. The engineer expressed the belief today that it would be best to allow the new walks to remain in preference to causing big expense by making the change.

A CLEAN BOOK.

Doctor Huston Goes to Conference With a Good Report.

Doctor Huston left this afternoon for Canton where he will attend conference, and before going he had a clean report for the business of the year. The total collections for benevolence amounted to $2406.85 and the general expense was $700. There were collected and paid on the improvements $3,900 and toward the ministerial support $2,150, making a total of the money received and expended $9,156.85. The church could not be in better condition than it is at present, and there is the general belief expressed that Doctor Huston will be returned to this charge so successful has he been. At a meeting of the board last night it was decided to heat the parsonage by steam.

AMONG THE DANCERS.

Pleasant Receptions at Bradshaw and Turner Hall.

The friends of James Pollock and James Flynn, two well known young men of this city who have been traveling about in the larger Eastern cities, gave a dance at Bradshaw hall last night in honor of them, as they leave today for Pittsburg after a visit here. Mr. Flynn was ill yesterday afternoon and unable to attend the dance last evening. About 25 couples enjoyed a pleasant evening in dancing.

The Lady Turners gave a very enjoyable dance in Turner hall last night, attended by about 35 couples. A prize waltz was won by Harry Everts and his partner Miss Lena Frey. And a large and delicious cake, the prize they earned, was divided generously among the other dancers.

The Waverly club will give a select dance in Bradshaw hall next Monday evening. Invitations will be out next week for a masquerade ball by the Waverly club to be given at the same hall on October 26.

A POOR ATTEMPT.

Freight Agent Thomas Laughs at the Quarantine Story.

The lame attempt of a local paper to make a great sensation out of the fact that some household goods from Wheeling were at the freight depot, brought the following from Agent Thomas this morning:

"I am surprised that a newspaper would print a story like that account of a quarantine. Why there was no quarantine, and therefore no truth in the account. Indeed it is a very lame attempt at a sensation, with nothing behind it. I don't believe the health authorities knew those goods were here, for none of them appeared until after they were taken away."

As usual the NEWS REVIEW gave the true story, and made no attempt to throw a halo of sensation about it.

THEY BOUGHT WHISKY

And Because They Did Not Pay For It Must Answer.

Special to the NEWS REVIEW.

Lisbon, Sept. 17.—Cass Sunstein today sued Elmer E. Black and Timothy Burns, of Salineville, for $109 the amount of a liquor bill. The petition says they were partners in a wholesale liquor house at Bergholz, and buying the stuff from him have not paid for it.

The defunct Lisbon Oil and Salt company want J. S. Saloon to pay them $1,100. They own some land north of town, and 12 years ago leased it to R. G. Eels, who conducted a salt works there and then assigned. The lease was sold with other effects, and Saloon purchased it, but they claim he has never paid the rent as he promised. Hence the suit.

WANT IT PAVED.

Avondale People Think They Should Be Recognized.

"If you lived on Avondale street and had to wade through the mud to get out as we have to do, you too would think the street ought to be paved," said a resident of that part of the city last night. "Then the street is so badly damaged by water that $900 wouldn't put it in the condition it was when Contractor Lutton left it. The Bradshaw heirs have suffered severely during the hard times, and I don't honestly believe they can afford to make the improvement. But leaving them aside there are the rest of us to be considered. We are shut out from the world and if that street isn't paved before winter we will be in an awful condition."

TAKING TESTIMONY.

Referee J. J. Purinton Will Hear All About a Partnership.

J. J. Purinton, who was made referee in the case of Harry Williams against William Burton, has set next Friday morning as the time for the taking of testimony. The matter is the outgrowth of an attempt to settle up the business of the principals, who were engaged in the manufacture of knobs in the city for some time. Both are well known as having been members of council at the same time.

JUSTICE IN A HURRY

Frank Lewis Would Not Support His Wife.

THEN THE POLICE WALKED IN

Now He Is In Jail Awaiting Transportation to Lisbon Where Judge Young Will Dispose of His Little Case—The Trial Only Lasted a Few Minutes.

The authorities scored a victory yesterday afternoon, and as a result Frank Lewis is in jail awaiting transportation to Lisbon, where he will be disposed of by Judge Young.

Lewis, who is a potter, was charged by his wife with failure to support her and the police began the work of collecting evidence. The case was placed in the hands of the mayor on Saturday, but Lewis could not be found, nor was he arrested until yesterday, when he was immediately arraigned before Mayor Gilbert. He denied his guilt, but his wife was there, and she told her story. According to this the husband had failed to do his duty and had not provided for the family. He had never abused her, she said, but he had abused the children, and that was more than she could endure. Mayor Gilbert heard the story, and then giving Lewis some good advice about his actions in the future, told him that he was sent to the probate court for sentence, and would be held in jail unless he could provide bond in the sum of $100. As Lewis could not meet this demand, he was taken to jail.

ANOTHER DISAPPOINTMENT.

No World's Fair Medals Until February.

Local manufacturers who won medals and renown at the World's Fair will not smile many smiles when they read the following special from Washington:

"It is understood that owing to unexpected and unavoidable delay, the Columbian World's Fair diplomas will not be ready for delivery until about next February. The medals, of which there are to be 24,000, will be finished some time in November next. Much difficulty has been experienced, it is said, in inserting in the medals the name of the persons entitled to them, many of them being longer than the space for that purpose."

ONE DEAD.

A Fatal Runaway Over in West Virginia.

Friends in the city have been notified of a fatal accident that occurred in Hancock county last Sunday, one of the victims being killed while being dragged along the road, and the other was painfully injured. The young men were Paul Jones and George Hobbs, of Fairview, and they were on their way to campmeeting at the Cove when the horse ran away, threw them out, and dragged Jones along the road. He was killed by a kick on the head. The young men had several friends in the city who learned with regret of the tragic happening.

A BOAT RACE.

Thomas Daley and an Unknown Will Try Their Skill.

Arrangements have been made for the most interesting boat race of the season, and it will take place on Friday evening. The principals are Thomas Daley and an unknown, and the stakes are $50 a side. The course is from the foot of Babb's Island to a point in the curve at Walker, and there will be no rowing up stream. There is some speculation among the sports as to who the unknown is, and several stories have been set afloat. So much stock is taken in some of these that bets are being made on the result.

A VALUABLE TREE.

It Is Walnut and Worth a Comfortable Fortune.

Among the visitors to the city today were J. R. Balsley and his son, Chas. H. Balsley, of Connellsville, Pa. The gentlemen were here on business, and Mr. Balsley, who is a prominent lumber dealer of that section, stated that he has on one of his pieces of land a black, curly walnut that will be worth when sawed $200 a thousand feet, and it contains no less than 6,000 feet. The tree is a beauty, and Mr. Balsley has no intention of cutting it down just now.

A Bad Record.

A resident, who knew the man in better days, says that there lives in the city a man who has served one term in the penitentiary at Columbus, one in West Virginia, and one in Pennsylvania. His failing is robbery, and he has, the informant thinks, never committed a crime since he was released from the last sentence.

MR. BRUCE thinks so much of Ohio
that he wants to buy it.

FREE silver and its cry seems to be taking a much needed vacation.

MR. CAMPBELL is out of the state this week, but, strange to relate, the government gets along as well as if he was with us.

EVERY effort known to the members of the ring, now being organized by Colonel Bruce, will be used to capture the legislature this year. Watch them. They will bear it.

IN touching upon the possibility of
a visitation of typhoid, the NEWS RE-VIEW has no desire to create a panic,
it simply desires to point out a danger
that may, by proper precaution, be averted.

BEFORE the campaign is over it will
be in order for Mr. Campbell to wander over Ohio telling the story of how
the right of free speech was denied him in this city a few years ago. It is an interesting little tale, and has doubtless lost nothing by the rest
since it was last worked.

WONDERFUL FINANCING.

Should President Cleveland, the
wonderful man of destiny, decide to ask the people for another term in
the chair he has so lazily occupied
these past few years, he will doubtless make the attempt on his record. And what a record it is. Three months after he was inaugurated, and his party had been given control of the government, there was $109,000,000 in
the treasury, the result of a wise and
judicious administration of public affairs on the part of General Harrison
and his associates. The money was gathered into our uncle's coffers by
the tariff law then in operation, and a
bond issue was the farthest thought
from the minds of public officials.
Every obligation was paid promptly,
and there was no piling down of pensions in order to save a few dollars for some other purpose. Now we are failing off at the rate of $6,000,000 a month, the national debt has increased almost $200,000,000, and we have no credit except that supported by the bond syndicate. The gold in
the reserve is below the safety mark,
and another bond issue is already in sight. And it is on this the president wants another term. Poor man, how
he will be disappointed when the people get done voting.

ISAAC EDWARDS HUNG.

His Crime Expiated at Columbus
This Morning.

FIRST WELSHMAN HUNG IN OHIO.

Strenuous Efforts Were Made by His Coun-
tymen to Save His Neck—Murdered Mrs.
Mary Sellers at Murray City—Displayed
Remarkable Nerve.

COLUMBUS, Sept. 17.—Isaac Edwards
of Hocking county was hanged in the penitentiary annex early this morning.
His neck was broken and the body was
cut down twelve and a half minutes
later.

Edwards was the first Welshman
ever hanged in the state, and strenuous
efforts were made by the Welsh people
to save him from the gallows. He murdered Mrs. Mary Sellers of Murray
City, who had cared for his motherless
children, because she would not desert
her husband and live with him. Edwards displayed remarkable nerve.

CAN BE TRIED TWICE.
An Interesting Decision in a Criminal
Case at Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 17.—Judge Dellen-
baugh of the common pleas court has
handed down a decision of unusual interest, being probably without precedent in Ohio.

A man named Collin Ross struck a child, Bertha Rosenberg, with an empty crock, the girl having accidentally thrown water from a hose upon Ross. He was arrested on the charge
of assault and battery and fined in
police court, but the fine was never
paid. Later the child died, and Ross,
who was again arrested for manslaughter, set up the defense that he
had stood trial once and had been fined
and could not be tried again. Judge Dellenbaugh decides that Ross must stand trial for manslaughter. The attorneys for the defense noted an exception.

TWO BROTHERS SHOT.
They Demolish Refreshments at a Wedding Reception in Greene County, O.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 17.—John and Simon Hancock, brothers, both of whom have been desperate men, have
been shot and mortally wounded at the residence of Lane Hatfield, in Greene
county, Jacob Hatfield, who is a brother of Lane, had just been married, and was giving a reception.
After the table was set, the two Hancock boys entered the house and
got on the table and kicked the refreshments all over the room, whereupon the Hatfields, both of whom were armed,
drew their revolvers and fired. Simon
was shot four times, and John was both shot and stabbed. They are not expected to live.

A Pensioner Stabs a Woman.
DAYTON, O., Sept. 17.—News has
just been received here that the other night, while at the village of West
Alexandria, Preble county, John
Golden, a pensioner of this city, in a drunken fury, attacked Mrs. Mary E.
King, whom he had accompanied from here. He stabbed her 24 times with a pocketknife and she is now lying in a precarious condition. Golden was at once arrested. Jealousy is alleged to have been the cause.

Set Aside the Sale.
COLUMBUS, Sept. 17.—The court at
Bucyrus has set aside the sale of the Columbus, Sandusky and Hocking railroad and ordered the road resold on
Oct. 19. The sale was set aside on the ground that the price was run up to an
excessive limit by an unauthorized bid-
der. The bondholders' committee bid
in the road at $1,000,000, when they
had expected to pay only $1,500,000.

Forger Lewis Writes a Letter.
COLUMBUS, Sept. 17.—Z. T. Lewis, the
bond forger, has given out a letter for publication. It was mailed at Dayton
and sent to Urbana, but does not disclose his whereabouts. The supposition
is that he mailed the letter to some friends in Dayton to be mailed from there.

SMALL OHIO HAPPENINGS.

At New Washington the cornerstone
was laid on the new German Lutheran church.

The new Catholic church building at Bethlehem settlement, near Bucyrus, was dedicated.

Bessie Rouch, aged 4, had both legs and left arm severed by a shifter on the Baltimore and Ohio road at Wooster, and
died an hour afterward.

At Lima Harvey Leatherman has sued
J. G. McClure for $5,000. Leatherman was tried on a charge of larceny preferred
by McClure, and acquitted.

Governor McKinley has issued a pardon to Frank Brellinger, a 16-year-old county young man, sent to the penitentiary for burglary on a one year sentence.

Mrs. Nat Morton was arrested at Portsmouth charged with trying to intimidate
a witness who had been called to testify
before the grand jury against her son,
Carlos, charged with burglary.

A suit for $10,000 has been brought against the Columbus, Hocking Valley
and Toledo railway by Mary Ann Moss,
widow of Samuel F. Moss, killed at Car-
roll, Sept. 15, 1894, by a passenger train.

Thomas Schopp, a gardener, residing near Portsmouth, assaulted his aged mother and beat her. Owing to her age her condition is serious. Schopp, who
was intoxicated at the time, was arrested.

Alfred D. Johnson, eldest son of W. D.
Johnson, the Toledo merchant of Lima,
who was engaged in business with his father, was killed by a switch engine of the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton
road, near their freight depot.

About 18 months ago Mr. Harry B. Van
Sickle of Toledo obtained a franchise for
an electric railway between Delaware and Centerburg. Wealthy New York capitalists investigated the project, and believing it to be a feasible one, will furnish all
the money necessary to go ahead at once
and build the road.

At Norwalk Reuben Turner, on behalf
of stockholders, has sued the officers of
the Sandusky, Milan and Norwalk Electric railroad. He alleges they have obtained all their stock through fraud, asked for the murder of his father-in-law, Gideon Hoover, and also with having secured an illegal bonus of $5,300
from the road.

BAD FOR DURRANT.

Witnesses Say He Was With Blanche
Lamont on the Day of the Murder.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 17.—The ninth
week of the Durrant trial is now on.
Miss Lanigan, a fellow pupil of Blanche
Lamont at the normal school, has testified that April 3 when school was dismissed she left with Alice Pleasant,
now Mrs. Dorgan. They noticed
Blanche Lamont in company with a
man whom she identified as Durrant.
Mrs. Yogel, a new witness, told how
from her parlor window on the afternoon of April 3, she noticed a man who waited about 45 minutes outside the normal school. Asked who the man was, she pointed her finger toward Durrant and dramatically exclaimed:
"There he is." When school was dismissed she saw three girls emerge from the building. Accompanied by Durrant
they boarded a Powell street car.

Mrs. James Crossett, the last witness,
had known Durrant well for four years.
The day Blanche Lamont was murdered, she said she was riding on a Valencia street car when she saw Durrant
sitting on the dummy with a young
woman whom she did not know.
Shown the clothes worn by Blanche Lamont at the time of the murder she said the woman she saw with Durrant

FRED GRANT SPOKE.

He Addresses the Army of the Tennessee at Cincinnati.

HIS FATHER'S PLANS OUTLINED.

He Tells the General's Mode of Campaign
For Closing the War, Which Death Pre-
vented His Describing in His Memoirs—
An Interesting Address.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 17.—The twenty-
seventh annual session of the Society
of the Army of the Tennessee is in session here with an unusually large attendance. Over 100 officers of high rank are registered. The distinguished
visitors and their ladies have been accorded a reception at Fort Thomas, in Kentucky, tendered by Commandant
Cochran and other army officers. General D. B. Henderson reported $94,000
secured for the Sherman monument at Washington and $3,000 promised by
the G. A. R.

Colonel Fred Grant's annual address
was unusually interesting. It outlined General Grant's plan of campaign for
closing the war and described the order
in which General Grant would have
narrated the story in the second volume

COLONEL FREDERICK DENT GRANT.

of his memoirs, had his life been
spared. Upon being appointed lieutenant general, and assuming command,
General Grant had an interview with President Lincoln, who wanted some
one to take the responsibility of action,
and call upon him for supplies, the
president pledging the full powers of the government in rendering all assistance possible. Said he:

"General Grant then planned movements for all of the armies to move at once. He regarded the army of the
James as the left wing, the army of the Potomac as the center, and the troops
operating under Sherman, of which
the army of the Tennessee was a most important part, as the right wing, all
other troops being co-operative columns.
By continuously hammering against
the Confederate armies, he proposed to destroy both them and their sources of
supply."

Colonel Grant compared the movement of the army of the Potomac to
that of Napoleon in the Russian campaign, while the plan in reference to
the whole army resembled that adopted
by the allies in their campaign against France in 1813-14. He outlined how
the Confederates had concentrated their troops east of the Mississippi into the armies of Lee and Johnston, how General Grant placed himself with the army of the Potomac, where the greatest opposition was expected, sent Sherman against Johnston, and Sheridan
through the Shenandoah valley.

On May 4 the army of the Potomac
moved, and on May 6 all were moving.
By May 11 the Southern troops were forced to act entirely on the defensive
and the Union lines had been considerably advanced. It was at the end of the first week of this campaign, that General Grant proposed to fight it out on this line, if it takes all summer."

The second phase of this plan was to keep the enemy within the besieged
cities, Richmond, Petersburg and Atlanta, and actively engage the outside
troops, to drive all the smaller commands to the south, to devastate the
country from which supplies were
drawn, and to destroy those who gathered upon the lines.

Governor McKinley delivered an eloquent welcome for Ohio, and Mayor
Caldwell for Cincinnati. President
General Dodge responded.

SIX PEOPLE KILLED.

Fatal Railroad Crossing Accident In Virginia.

VEHICLE STRUCK BY A TRAIN.

Five Occupants Killed Outright—A Young Girl Dies of Her Injuries Shortly Afterward—Railroad Officials Surprised, as the Train Is Visible 200 Yards.

LYNCHBURG, Va., Sept. 17.—Six persons have been killed as a result of a railroad crossing accident at Lawyer's station, 117 miles below here. A vehicle containing six persons, supposed to be Joseph Callahan of Rustburg, Campbell county, Va., two women, a girl of about 16 and two small children, was crossing the tracks of the Southern railway when it was struck by the engine of No. 35 southbound passenger train. Five of the occupants of the vehicle were killed outright and the young girl was so severely injured that she died shortly afterwards.

The parties were unknown in the vicinity of the accident, and it was only with difficulty and some uncertainty that they were identified as the family of Mr. Callahan of Rustburg. The railroad officials are at a loss to understand how the accident occurred at the place named, as they say the track is visible for a distance of 200 yards or more, and the occupants of the vehicle should have been able to learn of the approach of the train.

Shot by Her Stepson.

SHENANDOAH, Pa., Sept. 17.—Annie Rice, 30 years of age, has been shot and perhaps mortally wounded by her stepson, John Rice, at their home on Line street in this city. The ball took effect in the woman's left breast near the shoulder. The physician can not tell yet what the result will be.

His father, who was also a member of the hunting party, has offered $500 reward for any news of him, dead or alive.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Word has been received at the state department of the cessation of the inquiry now being conducted by the British and American commission into the Kuching outrage, and the officials are at a loss to understand how any question as to the punishment of persons found guilty can have arisen in advance of the conclusion of the inquiry.

THE TILLMANS HAVE A TILT.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Sept. 17.—The proceedings of the constitutional convention have been characterized by a most exciting tilt between Senator Tillman and his brother, George D. Tillman, on the question of naming a new county. George D. Tillman at a previous session had succeeded in getting the county named Butler. Senator Tillman was absent at the time, and returning, he moved to change the name to Saluda. In a passionate speech he charged Senator Butler with being a traitor to the party, and said that to name a county after him was an insult to the reformers of the state. George D. Tillman, in reply, taxed his brother with fighting a man whom he had defeated, and dramatically striking his breast exclaimed, "Thank God there is no sentiment in my heart that would make me stoop so low."

The scene became extremely exciting and the convention was in wild confusion. Senator Tillman in his speech taunted Senator Irby with not replying to his brother, G. D. Tillman, and Irby in a hot speech denounced Tillman for stirring up strife in the convention and said it came with ill grace from a man to hound his fallen foe, and declared that Butler in patriotism, honesty and courage was the equal of Tillman or any other man in the state. When a vote was finally obtained, Senator Tillman carried his point, and the new county was named Saluda instead of Butler by a vote of 80 to 34.

The Origin of Cards and Chess.

One of the attractions of the Atlanta exposition will be specimens showing the early origin of chess and card playing. It will be exhibited by Stewart Culin of the University of Pennsylvania. He has sent 34 upright cases and one large table case containing the objects in a carefully arranged series showing the evolution of the games. They tell the history of cards and chess, beginning with the more primitive forms known and extending to the present day. Mr. Culin discovered a clue to the origin of games among the American Indians.

The pack of cards is shown to have originally consisted of a bundle of practical arrows, marked with the signs of the world quarters. The feathered part of these arrows, bearing cosmical marks, was first used in fortune telling, and from this use the card games arose. In America the Indians did not get beyond the use of carved and painted staves. The American case shows the practical arrows of the McCloud river Indians of California, marked with colored ribbons by which they were distinguished. Side by side with them are the gambling sticks of the Haidas of Vancouver's island, similarly marked with rings of color and used like cards in their gambling even at the present day. In the adjoining case, devoted to eastern Asia, the practice arrows of Korea are shown, and with them the derived playing cards, here made of oiled paper, yet bearing, both on the backs and faces, devices copied from the cut feathers of the arrows.

With them are Chinese cards with the same emblems surviving as markers or indexes at the ends. These cards are double headed, as indeed were the gambling sticks, carrying back the idea of the common playing cards with double heads and index marks to the most remote antiquity.

Richard Mansfield's Wasted Advice.

Oh, the ingratitude of actors! That is what Richard Mansfield feels and says just now. Mr. Mansfield is aggrieved and all on account of a young journeyman, who applied to him for a position. This youth called upon Mr. Mansfield, and dared to sit in the room, awaiting him, with his hat on and a straw hat, too—a thing abhorrent to Mansfield. When the actor-manager entered the young man remained sitting. He did not attempt to remove his straw hat—the thing abhorrent to Mansfield. He stated his business, and then Mansfield let himself loose. "Young man," he said, "I cannot give you a position, but I will give you some good advice. When in the presence of people older than yourself it is in excusable taste to keep your hat on your head. I say nothing of it being a straw hat. Further, to sit as you are doing while I am standing is little less than unpardonable. But you are young. That is my advice to you. Good morning." The young man smiled and bowed himself out. Next day Mansfield received a brief note signed, "The young man to whom you gave advice." It said simply and elegantly, "You are the most ungrateful blackguard I have ever met." The actor-manager was shocked. The letter amazed him. He cannot understand why his good advice fell so flat.

Charles E. Blaney's New Plays.

Charles E. Blaney, one of the most successful of the American authors of "light" plays, will have two productions in New York during the latter portion of the season. One will be a four act comedy drama, entitled "The Electrician," in which a number of "novel effects" are announced. The other will be a spectacular farce comedy to be known as "A Coney Island Girl." The latter is probably the first play in which "shooting the chutes and bathing in a big tank of real water" are advertised as features.

A. E. Coen, a divinity student from Richmond college, is in town selling books. The young man has a good thing, and is working hard.

It is quietly rumored that an important business change will soon take place in the city, although the particulars could not be obtained this afternoon.

Many people will go to Lisbon fair tomorrow, and some went this afternoon. All the candidates for office will be there and Liverpool will be represented.

Liverpool is a busy place during the day, particularly about the river front and around the freight depot. At present one can find every one at work in that part of town.

N. J. Randall, editor of the Minerva Kodak, and the official organ of the American Mechanics, was in the city yesterday calling on friends and looking after business matters.

The snipe shooters union is the name of a juvenile base ball club just organized and their captain, Will Hanson, and manager, John Eoff, want to hear from any club of 16 year old boys in the city.

Two Grand Army men who had a battle on the street a short time ago are said to have met yesterday and one asked his bitter enemy for a chew of tobacco. That ended the feud and they shook hands over it.

While Howard Kerr and Percy Little were driving yesterday from Williamsport their buggy was upset, throwing them out. Kerr sustained several cuts on his face while Little escaped with a few bruises.

Two prominent operative potters had a wordy dispute yesterday afternoon in an uptown pottery, and almost came to blows. The timely intervention of friends prevented a black eye or two. The dead road to the East End formed material for the argument.

The NEWS REVIEW is in receipt of a well written article detailing the circumstances surrounding the death of John Hollinger, at Clarkson, but as it is a week old, and this paper published a statement of the facts on the day of tragic happening, it found a resting place in the waste basket.

A disgraceful row occurred on a shanty boat last night the cause of the trouble being a young woman from Wellsville. Efforts were made to keep the matter very quiet, but it is known that a young man well known in certain circles had his lip cut by being hit with a plate.

During the crush at the Selby-Michaels wedding in Wellsville last evening the little daughter of James McDavitt was painfully crushed. She was carried to the office of Doctor Holland, when it was found that she was not seriously hurt. The little one's father is employed in this city.

A young man residing on the Calcutta road ran against a circumstance Sunday evening, which would cause considerable talk if fully explained. He captured a horse and buggy as the animal was starting at a good pace down the road and then asked an explanation from the owner.

The barbers say they keep their agreement to close on Saturday night, when the clock strikes 12, and no man can be shaved after that hour until Monday morning unless he is in a shop when the bell sounds. A Beaver Falls man tried it on Saturday evening on a bet, and although he was only two minutes late, he could not find a shop that would admit him.

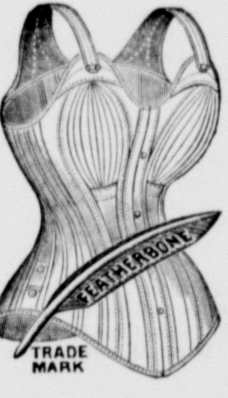

The city came near having a sensation recently. A young girl who claimed she had been deceived by a young man appeared at one of the law offices and talked of entering a serious charge against the false lover. She changed her mind and left, saying she would poison him instead. She evidently was in earnest, as she asked at a drug store for poison and received what she supposed was a deadly substance. She must have decided finally to end her life, as she took a big dose of the stuff and imagining that she was dying called a doctor. He found that it was all imagination. The druggist had been slick enough to give her a harmless powder.

What are Featherbone Corsets?

How are they different from other corsets? These are questions frequently asked us. To explain this correctly we must first state that the Featherbone corset people have a patent process of transforming the quills of feathers into an article for bone-tying corsets that has no equal. It is not affected by dampness or perspiration; is soft and pliable. You cannot break it. It will stand washing and takes readily to your form. The corset needs no breaking in, and with each one sold the manufacturers give a written guarantee that the corset will be satisfactory or your money will be refunded.

Featherbone Corset Waists.

No corset waist sold will equal it for fit and wear. It's the perfect shape and gives your form a perfect contour. It is not a high-priced waist. We have them with the buttoned front or with the steels, in both drab and white from 18s to 30s in sizes. Ask to see these corsets when in the store.

Thompson's Glove Fitting Corsets.

We keep a full line of these goods from $1.00 per pair up to $2.00, including their popular K. and L. brands at $1.00 and $1.25 per pair. We carry nothing but the best makes of corsets and have built up a big corset trade by always selling reliable goods.

ATLANTIC TEA CO.

HE BEAT SANDY STEELE

And the Board of Directors Employed Him as Director.

A GOOD MAN IN EVERY WAY

A Short Session of the Authorities of the Young Men's Christian Association Last Evening Resulted in the Election of William A. Rogers to the Place Vacated by J. T. Conkey.

The directors of the Young Men's Christian Association do not believe in delay, and the place of Mr. Conkey, the physical director who resigned because he wanted to attend college, has already been filled.

It did not require a great deal of time last night when the directors got together for them to decide upon a man, and they chose William A. Rogers, of Martin's Ferry. He came highly recommended, not alone by the people of the town in which he has resided, but by the state board who manifest great interest in his welfare. He will be here in 10 days at farthest, as soon as he can close his business affairs, and will take up work at the association rooms at once. Mr. Rogers is a good man, bearing the reputation of not only standing well in the gymnasium, but possessing the ability to win upon the field. He won the 100 yard dash against Sandy Steele at the tri-state field sports last week, and showed then that he is a thorough athlete.

SOME PEOPLE OBJECT.

They Want the Stores to Remain Open During the Evening.

"Do you know that there is a movement on foot to organize clubs for the purpose of buying goods in Wellsville and Pittsburg," said a well known business man to the NEWS REVIEW today. "These people don't like to see the stores closed in the evening, and they will get goods if they can't buy them at home. I have heard that a wagon will soon be employed to make daily trips between here and Wellsville to deliver the goods they buy. I don't think the early closing idea is a good one."

AT HIS OLD TRICKS.

John Allison Has Again Emerged From Mystery.

John Allison, he who is known far and wide because of numerous scrapes in which he has figured, has again been found, this time over the river. With an old wagon and a pair of decrepit horses he has set up a camp, and lives as nicely as when lost in the wilds of St. Clair township or perched on a hill in the West End. Recently he had a row with some of the people living over there, and they say that he will be compelled to leave if he does not behave himself. John is wanted here for an old fine.

HEARD THE WILD CAT.

It Has Moved a Few Miles Up the River.

A story comes from a farmer living across the river from Smith's Ferry, that the Chester wild cat has moved up the river. It was heard in that part of the country on Sunday night, and howled to its heart's content. The supposition that the animal is a panther is killed by the knowledge that panthers never lived in this section, and the supposition that it is a wild cat is born out by the statement that one was killed on the creek below Salineville half a dozen years ago.

NO MORE BANANAS.

Chief Gill Will Make a Few Arrests.

Chief Gill will not allow the selling of half rotten fruit on the streets from wagons, and the appearance of hucksters engaged in that particular branch will be a signal for an arrest. Much complaint was heard last night, and the opinion freely expressed that the health authorities should not allow the sale of dangerously decayed fruit on the streets.

Miss McIntosh Will Sing.

Miss Nancy McIntosh, the young lady who at one time resided in this city but has since won fame because of her excellent singing in London, will sing in Allegheny at Carnegie hall early in October. It will be the event of season in which society is interested, and in speaking of it a Pittsburg paper says:

"Miss McIntosh comes home with the highest praise London critics can bestow, and one is safe in saying that she has fulfilled to the utmost the promises of her early girlhood."

A Big Audience.

If ticket selling is an indication, the production of "Charleston" at the Grand this week will be attended by large audiences. The tickets are selling rapidly, and a great crowd is expected. Children under 14 years will be admitted tomorrow night for 10 cents.

General Holloway's Funeral.

General Holloway was buried this afternoon at Columbiana, a large number of Grand Army men and Masons being in attendance. He was born near Columbiana in 1833, and was raised on a farm. In 1861 he enlisted in the army and took part in 54 battles, and was seriously wounded at Kenesaw mountain. He was successively promoted for bravery. In 1873 he was elected to the legislature and again in 1875. He was admitted to the bar in 1877, and has practiced law since that time.

Recovered the Box.

J. M. Mace, the stranger who was confronted by a supposed forged order at the freight depot when he called for a box yesterday, has found his box having recovered it from Expressman Doak. Doak had taken it out for a man named J. E. Mace, who refused to receive it, and then Doak kept it knowing that someone would soon call for it. The whole matter is the result of an error, and the principals are doing all they can to find who made the mistake.

Want a Policeman.

East End people have not given up hope of having an officer for their part of the city even though they did not get the road, and one resident in speaking of the matter today said that if it was necessary to have a little data before council would move he could easily provide a long list dealing with women who have been frightened by tramps and roosts that have been robbed of chickens, not to speak of the drunks who have insulted people on the streets.

Good health is a precious boon and those who enjoy it should preserve it at whatever cost. Libby's Phosphatic Beef, Iron and Wine is the great health preserving remedy, never failing tonic, strength and tissue producer and builder up of weak and debilitated women. Sold by first class druggists. Be sure you get Libby's. Don't be persuaded by any dealer to take something he will tell you is just as good—his object is to sell you some poor deception upon which his profits are large. Go to some first class dealer or send $1 to us, Libby, McNeill & Libby, Union Stock Yards, Chicago, or send to Alvin H. Bulger, leading druggist, East Liverpool, O.

Some Go, Some Come.

May Toms moved with her household goods this morning to Trenton.

Mary Berdoff, for several years a resident of this city, moved to Allegheny today.

Harry Kerr has moved his household effects to Rochester.

Douglas Haynes, an employee of the Thompson pottery, has moved his family from Minerva to this city.

While in Chicago, Mr. Charles L. Kahler, a prominent shoe merchant of Des Moines, Iowa, had quite a serious time of it. He took such a severe cold that he could hardly talk or navigate, but the prompt use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy cured him of his cold so quickly that others at the hotel who had bad colds followed his example and half a dozen persons ordered it from the nearest drug store. They were profuse in their thanks to Mr. Kahler for telling them how to cure a bad cold so quickly. For sale by Alvin H. Bulger, Sixth and West Market street, druggists.

Cars Were Bunched.

Cars on the street railway were bunched last night and passengers were greatly put out because the trolley wire was down at Second street. After a time the break was repaired, and all was as well as it could be on the rickety old line. Superintendent Andrews went to Cleveland on business this morning.

Meeting Today.

The Order of Ohio directors are holding a meeting this afternoon. Attorney John McGarry, who has been acting as secretary, will be made permanent secretary of the order.

The Buckeye Building and Loan association which suspended payments on account of Democratic times have resumed.

Irving W. Larimore, physical director of Young Men's Christian Association, Des Moines, Iowa, says he can conscientiously recommend Chamberlain's Pain Balm to athletes, gymnasts, bicyclists, foot ball players and the profession in general for bruises, sprains and dislocation; also for soreness and stiffness of the muscles. When applied before the parts become swollen it will effect a cure in one-half the time usually required. For sale by Alvin H. Bulger, Sixth and West Market streets, druggists.

A Broad Challenge.

The challenge of the Turners to play any team in the city a game of prisoner's base not being accepted, they have decided to make the same offer to any team in the county, the game to be played here, or on any ground suitable for the purpose.

BANKRUPTCY

—of the physical being is the result of drawing incessantly upon the reserve capital of nerve force. The wear, tear and strain of modern life are concentrated upon the nervous system. The young men of our day become sufferers from nervous debility or exhaustion, nervous prostration or weakness. This may be the result of too much mental worry and excitement, or the result of bad practices and excesses, or pernicious habits, contracted in youth, through ignorance. They feel irritable, weak and nervous with such distressing symptoms as backache, dizziness, shooting pains in head or chest, sometimes indigestion. The middle-aged men, as well, suffer from exhaustion, loss of manly power, low spirits, impaired memory, and many derangements of mind and body. The ill-used brain is morbidly wide awake when the overworked business man attempts to find rest in bed.

The physicians and specialists of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute devote their best energies to reclaiming and restoring such unfortunate to health and happiness. They have written a book of 168 pages, treating of these maladies and setting forth a rational means of home-treatment for their cure. It is sent securely sealed, in plain envelope, on receipt of 10 cents for postage.

A. M. Bailey, a well known citizen of Eugene, Oregon, says his wife has for years been troubled with chronic diarrhoea and used many remedies with little relief until she tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which has cured her sound and well. Give it a trial and you will be surprised at the prompt relief it affords. Twenty-five and 50-cent bottles for sale by Alvin H. Bulger, Sixth and West Market streets, druggists.

Getting Quiet.

The smallpox scare is subsiding at the towns down the river, and people are realizing that there will be no more danger provided the law is carried out, and the provisions arranged for quarantining the towns are observed. No new cases have appeared in Wheeling.

POE KNEW ARGON.

The Poet Wrote of the Third Constituent of the Atmosphere.

Will Lord Rayleigh and Professor Ramsay have to share the honor of "spotting" the third constituent of the atmosphere with Edgar Allan Poe? It certainly looks like it, if we consider the evidence adduced by a correspondent of a French journal, who has been dipping into the "Tales of Mystery and Imagination." The passage upon which this gentleman rests Poe's claims is contained in "The Unparalleled Adventure of One Hans Pfaall." It is worth while quoting it in full:

"I then took opportunities of conveying by night to a retired situation east of Rotterdam five iron bound casks, to contain about 50 gallons each, and one of a larger size; six tin tubes 8 inches in diameter, properly shaped and 10 feet in length; a quantity of a particular metallic substance, or semimetal, which I shall not name, and a dozen demijohns of a very common acid. The gas to be formed from these latter materials is a gas never yet generated by any other person than myself—or at least applied to any similar purpose. I can only venture to say here that it is a constituent of azote (nitrogen), so long considered irreducible, and that its density is about 37.4 times less than oxygen. It is tasteless, but not odorless; burns, when pure, with a greenish flame and is instantaneously fatal to animal life. Its fall secret I would make no difficulty in disclosing, but that it of right belongs to a citizen of Nantes, in France, by whom it was conditionally communicated to myself."

It must be confessed that the mysterious gas evolved by the force of Poe's imagination has not a little in common with the argon, whose acquaintance we are now privileged to make some 50 years later. The "particular metallic substance or semimetal," used by Hans Pfaall, has its fellow in cloveite, from which we have been led to understand argon has been extracted when treated with an acid, after the manner of the voracious Dutch balloonist. If the new gas is not precisely regarded as "a constituent of nitrogen," it has at least been declared by some to be an allotropic modification of it. No doubt the physical and chemical qualities of Edgar Allan Poe's gas are not exactly those of argon. But what of that? Instead, for example, of being 37 times lighter than hydrogen, argon, we understand, is very much heavier. It must be remembered, however, that Hans Pfaall had to make a journey to the moon. Had his gas been heavier, how could he have dropped a couple of ballast bags on the head of Mynheer Superbus Van Underduk, and have disappeared above the clouds almost before the worthy burgomaster had recovered himself? The romancer, even when he is a man of science, must surely be allowed a little latitude with his chemistry. —Westminster Gazette.

He Denied the Call.

An English army officer tells an amusing story of an incident that occurred at Maidstone many years ago, in the time of the old cavalry depot. On a certain very foggy night there was a complete silence, broken only by the voices of the sentries who, at regular intervals, passed the usual word down the line. The officer woke up just as the usual watch was passing, and this was what he heard: First sentry, "No. 1, and all's well!" Then there was silence for a moment, and a voice called into the darkness, "No. 3, and all's well, and No. 2's asleep!" Before No. 4 could take up the thread of the proceedings a voice in which more than a suspicion of slumber remained cried hurriedly, "No. 2, and all's well, and No. 3's a liar!"

Hurt His Ankle.

Willis Jordan, the genial conductor of the pony who is well known as a jolly fellow in every manufactory in town, is off duty today because he jumped off the engine last night while at work in this place and hurt his foot. The railroad men say they have a hoo-doo among them.

AN EPIDEMIC FEARED

Typhoid Fever Promises to Come Down the River.

DANGER IN DAVIS ISLAND DAM

The Sewage of a Territory Containing 500,000 People Almost, Will Come Flooding Down the River When the Wickets are Raised, and Liverpool Will Get the Benefit—One Remedy Suggested.

Unless some miraculous power, exercising close watch upon the destinies of the city, provides ways and means to prevent it there will be a visitation of typhoid before the year is over, and the grim reaper will doubtless claim his share of victims.

This is a strange statement to make at this time, for the city was never in a more healthy condition than at present. So far as is known there is not a sufferer from fever in town, and few if any, people are ill. The diphtheria scare has not even amounted to a scare since the only patient is now well on the way to recovery and there is not unusual danger for a spread of the disease. Coughs and colds may bother the youth and maid who stand too long by the garden gate or swing to late in the commodious hammock, but beyond these trifles there is a painful, to the doctors, absence of sickness, and the city is as healthy and robust as a country maiden. But there is danger in the air. At present it is only a small cloud on the horizon, but it will not remain long in that condition. The natural process of development will increase it to a full-fledged thunder cloud, and a storm of sickness will break over the city.

The idea was advanced by a physician as he, another doctor and the newspaper man talked of the good health of the city, and the manner in which he put his argument not only brought frequent nods of approval, but convinced the newspaper man that there was danger in the future. He based his argument upon the condition of the river. For months it has been little more than a creek, a ribbon of clear, sparkling water that lost its beauty and changed its color immediately after every dash of rain the parched country has had these many months. During all this time the sewage from dozens of towns along the river has been washed into the stream, and then sluggishly moved toward Cairo and the Mississippi. But Liverpool has been getting very good water. The wickets at the Davis Island dam have been down, and the sewerage and filth from cities with a population of no less than half a million souls have been washing that way. The bottom of the Pittsburgh harbor is one festering mass of disease, the germs writhing and twisting in the muddy water ready and anxious for the first rise to sweep them down the river. For months the sewers of Pittsburgh, Allegheny and the south side have been emptying their wealth of garbage into the river. This has piled up in the harbor and floated down against the dam until there is a vast quantity of it waiting for a few rains to send it toward the towns and cities below, and that is not all. The dirty alleys and courts of these places have their stock of dried up filth, and when the rain comes, it too will float away, and some of the deadly concoction will stop in its downward course at the intake pipe of the water works. The great engines will draw it upward, and it will float complacently in one or both of the reservoirs. Then it will be distributed through the city. Every family patronizing the water department will get its share of the devilish stuff. Where now they are provided with water that is not dangerous, if it is not as good as it might be, they will probably get the filth of Allegheny county through the pipes. Then will come the harvest. Typhoid will break forth in a dozen different places, the doctors will have a harvest, there will be a lot of talk of a pure water supply, suggestions will be made without number, the epidemic will gradually run its course, the sick will recover, and the city will sink back into the position it holds at present until the same course will produce the same result, and the scene will be re-enacted.

That is the story the physician told, and he told it as one with understanding. When asked what was to be done to prevent it he could do nothing but shake his head. The people can not all drink water from wells, for there are not a sufficient number of wells in town to supply the demand, and even if there were the water, with the topography of the country, could not be counted upon as pure. The board of health have in a measure provided for the emergency by lessening the causes of typhoid in the city. People have been compelled to connect their properties with the sewers and more will be brought into line before the year is ended. The danger from typhoid, they say, can be lessened by boiling the water used, and perhaps the visitation will be prevented if this system is carefully carried out. From the grave manner in which the gentlemen discussed the situation and the remarks from one that this seemed to be a year of typhoid epidemics, several instances being cited, the representative of this paper could not deny that they were in earnest, and meant every word they said.

MERRY ANGLERS

And Their Guests Had a Royal Time Last Night.

The East Liverpool Angling club held a reception last night at Grand Army hall, and those who were so fortunate as to be present will heartily coincide with the statement that it was indeed a "feast of reason and a flow of soul." Alex McGraw held the berth of chairman and delivered an address of welcome to the invited guests, responded to by a gentleman of German extraction, whose name we were unable to secure, although we heard it whispered that he was a first cousin of Hank Hohenzollernsche, whose castle is on the Rhine. Music, mirth and reminiscences of the late camp on the shores of the beautiful Potomac river held sway for some length of time, and then the bugle was sounded for the feast. And such a feast. The ladies in charge of the culinary department must have vied earnestly with each other in seeing who could secure the greatest variety of substantial and delicacies, and the result was indeed a rich treat.

After supper, service of song and camp reminiscences were resumed, and the fish stories related would have set Isaak Walton crazy with envy. One prominent citizen, well known for truth and veracity, gave a harrowing and blood curdling description of his enforced absence from camp on one occasion, being compelled to make his way to camp through the blackness of darkness, with grizzly bears inhabiting the mountain fastness on one side, and ferocious wild cats, panthers and catamounts in the dismal swamps on the other side of the road. He is still suffering from acute nervous prostration in consequence.

Providence permitting, the club will go into camp again next season, but the wives and daughters and sweethearts of the members will accompany the expedition, and will see to it that a ground is selected where wild beasts of the forest do not roam about, seeking whom they may devour.

WEDDED IN WELLSVILLE.

Rev. J. A. Selby and Miss Ociey May Michaels Married.

The marriage last evening of Rev. J. A. Selby and Miss Ociey May Michaels was the notable society event of Wellsville for the year. The Methodist Protestant church was beautifully decorated for the event, and the auditorium was crowded as the bridal party, preceded by Ralph Conn and Miss Ester Davidson, walked down the aisle. The bride was dressed in a beautiful gown of white silk and carried white roses, while the handsome veil almost concealed the orange blossoms in her hair. The ceremony was carried out by Rev. S. S. Fisher, a former pastor of the church, and the bridal party were then driven to the home of the bride, where a reception was held. A number of Liverpool friends of the bride and groom were present. Haines' band was also there. Reverend Selby left this morning for Connellsville, where he will attend conference and upon his return the happy bride and groom will take their wedding journey.

BOTH EYES GONE.

Doctor Henderson Will Recover, But Will Probably Be Blind.

Dr. George A. Henderson, who was shot in the face by the accidental discharge of a gun at a fishing camp near Wellsville, several days ago, is improving slowly at the West Penn hospital, Pittsburgh. His condition generally is such that his recovery is assured, but the attending physician says they are not certain that they will be able to save the sight of either eye. At present the outlook is unfavorable, but every effort will be made to save one of the injured eyes. The Hammondsville correspondent of the Wellsville Union claims that the shooting was the result of an affray, and the matter was quieted at the request of interested parties. No one would give the name of the party who fired the shot.

HUGGED BY A BIG BRUTE

The Awful Experience of a Young Girl.

SEIZED IN THE STREET

By a Man Who Was Frightened Away and Ran Like a Deer When Pursued by Watchman Potts and Tom Smith—The Young Woman Was Shocked.

The man who spends his leisure time in mixing with crowds and cutting the dresses of women who never know he is around is superseded by the brute who stops young girls on the streets at night and hugs them.

Late last night a young woman scarcely more than a girl was walking near the Buckeye pottery on her way home, when a man stepped out of the shadow and stood in her way. He was a big fellow, but beyond that she could tell nothing about him, for he had not stood there a second before he gathered the girl in his brawny arms, and pressing her close to his breast gave her a bear like hug. It was all over in a minute, and the man was flying down the street, and the girl stood on the pavement shrieking for help. Watchman Potts heard the screams, and running to her assistance discovered the cause of the trouble. He saw the man fleeing and accompanied by Tom Smith, who happened to be near, chased the fellow to the vicinity of Tim Burns' saloon, where he disappeared. The pursuers have a well developed suspicion that they know the fellow. The young woman was not hurt, but she received a severe shock and went home very much frightened.

The occurrence last night brings out the statement that a married lady residing in Bradshaw addition experienced a similar assault a few months ago at the Horn switch. She had an umbrella, and the nerve to strike the fellow over the face, compelling him to run.

THEY CALL HIM DINKEY,

But His Name Is Miller and He Wears Good Clothes.

As Bert Irons, the wheelman, was fixing the tire of his wheel in Monaca yesterday, he saw Dinkey Miller, the chap who was accused of stealing Ret Meador's watch from the Anderson House, go by. Irons dropped the tire and followed Miller to Alliquippa where he was convinced of the man's identity by a good look at him, and had him arrested. Anderson was notified by wire, and going to Beaver identified the man which result in the incarceration of Miller in the Beaver jail.

When the sheriff had him he refused to release him without requisition papers, and Chief Gill has been trying to convince them all day that they are making a mistake, for the requisition will certainly be taken out. Miller was flashily dressed, and had several packages at the hotel where he stopped, and it is believed the watch is among them.

AN EXALTED POSITION.

Mr. J. G. Kerry Goes to a Canadian University as Lecturer.

Mr. J. G. Kerry, the gentleman who has made this city his abiding place because of his connection with the bridge company for more than a year, will leave on Thursday for Montreal, Can. Mr. Kerry has taken a position in McGill university, the leading educational institution of the Dominion, and will lecture on astronomy and surveying. His high attainments and personal character especially fit the gentleman for this class of work, and his friends in this city well know that as college professor Mr. Kerry will be a pronounced success. Mr. Kerry will retain his interest in the bridge company, although his connection will not be active and he hopes to return for a brief visit next summer.

NO CHANGE.

First Avenue in East End Will Remain As It Is.

The councilmen who were appointed to view First Avenue in East End and decide upon the future course of the stream failed to appear at the right time, and Engineer George visited the place alone. He found that people there have been busy laying sidewalks and did not feel like changing them now that the walk was done. The engineer expressed the belief today that it would be best to allow the new walks to remain in preference to causing big expense by making the change.

A CLEAN BOOK.

Doctor Huston Goes to Conference With a Good Report.

Doctor Huston left this afternoon for Canton where he will attend conference, and before going he had a clean report for the business of the year. The total collections for benevolence amounted to $2406.85 and the general expense was $700. There were collected and paid on the improvements $3,900 and toward the ministerial support $2,150, making a total of the money received and expended $9,156.85. The church could not be in better condition than it is at present, and there is the general belief expressed that Doctor Huston will be returned to this charge so successful has been. At a meeting of the board last night it was decided to heat the parsonage by steam.

AMONG THE DANCERS.

Pleasant Receptions at Bradshaw and Turner Hall.

The friends of James Pollock and James Flynn, two well known young men of this city who have been traveling about in the larger Eastern cities, gave a dance at Bradshaw hall last night in honor of them, as they leave today for Pittsburgh after a visit here. Mr. Flynn was ill yesterday afternoon and unable to attend the dance last evening. About 25 couples enjoyed a pleasant evening in dancing.

The Lady Turners gave a very enjoyable dance in Turner hall last night, attended by about 35 couples. A prize waltz was won by Harry Everts and his partner Miss Lena Frey. And a large and delicious cake, the prize they earned, was divided generously among the other dancers.

The Waverly club will give a select dance in Bradshaw hall next Monday evening. Invitations will be out next week for a masquerade ball by the Waverly club to be given at the same hall on October 26.

A POOR ATTEMPT.

Freight Agent Thomas Laughs at the Quarantine Story.

The lame attempt of a local paper to make a great sensation out of the fact that some household goods from Wheeling were at the freight depot, brought the following from Agent Thomas this morning:

"I am surprised that a newspaper would print a story like that account of a quarantine. Why there was no quarantine, and therefore no truth in the account. Indeed it is a very lame attempt at a sensation, with nothing behind it. I don't believe the health authorities knew those goods were here, for none of them appeared until after they were taken away."

As usual the NEWS REVIEW gave the true story, and made no attempt to throw a halo of sensation about it.

THEY BOUGHT WHISKY

And Because They Did Not Pay For It Must Answer.

Special to the NEWS REVIEW.
Lisbon, Sept. 17.—Cass Sunstein today sued Elmer E. Black and Timothy Burns, of Salsville, for $109 the amount of a liquor bill. The petition says they were partners in a wholesale liquor house at Bergholz, and buying the stuff from him have not paid for it.

The defunct Lisbon Oil and Salt company want J. S. Saloon to pay them $1,100. They own some land north of town, and 12 years ago leased it to R. G. Eels, who conducted a salt works there and then assigned. The lease was sold with other effects, and Saloon purchased it, but they claim he has never paid the rent as he promised. Hence the suit.

WANT IT PAVED.

Avondale People Think They Should Be Recognized.

"If you lived on Avondale street and had to wade through the mud to get out as we have to do, you too would think the street ought to be paved," said a resident of that part of the city last night. "Then the street is so badly damaged by water that $900 wouldn't put it in the condition it was when Contractor Lutton left it. The Bradshaw heirs have suffered severely during the hard times, and I don't honestly believe they can afford to make the improvement. But leaving them aside there are the rest of us to be considered. We are shut out from the world and if that street isn't paved before winter we will be in an awful condition."

TAKING TESTIMONY.

Referee J. J. Purinton Will Hear All About a Partnership.

J. J. Purinton, who was made referee in the case of Harry Williams against William Burton, has set next Friday morning as the time for the taking of testimony. The matter is the outgrowth of an attempt to settle up the business of the principals, who were engaged in the manufacture of knobs in the city for some time. Both are well known as having been members of council at the same time.

JUSTICE IN A HURRY

Frank Lewis Would Not Support His Wife.

THEN THE POLICE WALKED IN

Now He Is In Jail Awaiting Transportation to Lisbon Where Judge Young Will Dispose of His Little Case—The Trial Only Lasted a Few Minutes.

The authorities scored a victory yesterday afternoon, and as a result Frank Lewis is in jail awaiting transportation to Lisbon, where he will be disposed of by Judge Young.

Lewis, who is a potter, was charged by his wife with failure to support her and the police began the work of collecting evidence. The case was placed in the hands of the mayor on Saturday, but Lewis could not be found, nor was he arrested until yesterday, when he was immediately arraigned before Mayor Gilbert. He denied his guilt, but his wife was there, and she told her story. According to this the husband had failed to do his duty and had not provided for the family. He had never abused her, she said, but he had abused the children, and that was more than she could endure. Mayor Gilbert heard the story, and then giving Lewis some good advice about his actions in the future, told him that he was sent to the probate court for sentence, and would be held in jail unless he could provide bond in the sum of $100. As Lewis could not meet this demand, he was taken to jail.

ANOTHER DISAPPOINTMENT.

No World's Fair Medals Until February.

Local manufacturers who won medals and renown at the World's Fair will not smile many smiles when they read the following special from Washington:

"It is understood that owing to unexpected and unavoidable delay, the Columbian World's Fair diplomas will not be ready for delivery until about next February. The medals, of which there are to be 24,000, will be finished some time in November next. Much difficulty has been experienced, it is said, in inserting in the medals the name of the persons entitled to them, many of them being longer than the space for that purpose."

ONE DEAD.

A Fatal Runaway Over in West Virginia.

Friends in the city have been notified of a fatal accident that occurred in Hancock county last Sunday, one of the victims being killed while being dragged along the road, and the other was painfully injured. The young men were Paul Jones and George Hobbs, of Fairview, and they were on their way to campmeeting at the Cove when the horse ran away, threw them out, and dragged Jones along the road. He was killed by a kick on the head. The young men had several friends in the city who learned with regret of the tragic happening.

A BOAT RACE.

Thomas Daley and an Unknown Will Try Their Skill.

Arrangements have been made for the most interesting boat race of the season, and it will take place on Friday evening. The principals are Thomas Daley and an unknown, and the stakes are $50 a side. The course is from the foot of Babb's Island to a point in the curve at Walker, and there will be no rowing up stream. There is some speculation among the sports as to who the unknown is, and several stories have been set afloat. So much stock is taken in some of these that bets are being made on the result.

A VALUABLE TREE.

It Is Walnut and Worth a Comfortable Fortune.

Among the visitors to the city today were J. R. Baisley and his son, Chas. H. Baisley, of Connellsville, Pa. The gentlemen were here on business, and Mr. Baisley, who is a prominent lumber dealer of that section, stated that he has on one of his pieces of land a black, curly walnut that will be worth when sawed $200 a thousand feet, and it contains no less than 6,000 feet. The tree is a beauty, and Mr. Baisley has no intention of cutting it down just now.

A Bad Record.

A resident, who knew the man in better days, says that there lives in the city a man who has served one term in the penitentiary at Columbus, one in West Virginia, and one in Pennsylvania. His failing is robbery, and he has, the informant thinks, never committed a crime since he was released from the last sentence.

IN touching upon the possibility of
a visitation of typhoid, the NEWS RE-VIEW has no desire to create a panic,
it simply desires to point out a danger
that may, by proper precaution, be
averted.
BEFORE the campaign is over it will
be in order for Mr. Campbell to wander over Ohio telling the story of how
the right of free speech was denied him in this city a few years ago. It is an interesting little tale, and has
doubtless lost nothing by the rest
since it was last worked.

WONDERFUL FINANCING.
Should President Cleveland, the
wonderful man of destiny, decide to
ask the people for another term in
the chair he has so lazily occupied
these past few years, he will doubtless
make the attempt on his record. And
what a record it is. Three months
after he was inaugurated, and his
party had been given control of the
government, there was $109,000,000 in
the treasury, the result of a wise and
judicious administration of public
affairs on the part of General Harrison
and his associates. The money was gathered into our uncle's coffers by
the tariff law then in operation, and a
bond issue was the farthest thought
from the minds of public officials.
Every obligation was paid promptly,
and there was no piling down of pensions in order to save a few dollars for
some other purpose. Now we are failing off at the rate of $6,000,000 a
month, the national debt has increased almost $200,000,000, and we
have no credit except that supported
by the bond syndicate. The gold in
the reserve is below the safety mark,
and another bond issue is already in
sight. And it is on this the president
wants another term. Poor man, how
he will be disappointed when the people get done voting.

ISAAC EDWARDS HUNG.

His Crime Expiated at Columbus This Morning.

FIRST WELSHMAN HUNG IN OHIO.
Strenuous Efforts Were Made by His Countrymen to Save His Neck—Murdered Mrs.
Mary Sellers at Murray City—Displayed
Remarkable Nerve.

COLUMBUS, Sept. 17.—Isaac Edwards
of Hocking county was hanged in the
penitentiary annex early this morning.
His neck was broken and the body was
cut down twelve and a half minutes
later.
Edwards was the first Welshman
ever hanged in the state, and strenuous
efforts were made by the Welsh people
to save him from the gallows. He
murdered Mrs. Mary Sellers of Murray
City, who had cared for his motherless
children, because she would not desert
her husband and live with him. Edwards displayed remarkable nerve.

CAN BE TRIED TWICE.
An Interesting Decision in a Criminal
Case at Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 17.—Judge Dellen-
baugh of the common pleas court has
handed down a decision of unusual interest, being probably without precedent in Ohio.

A man named Collin Ross struck a child, Bertha Rosenberg, with an empty crock, the girl having accidentally thrown water from a hose upon Ross. He was arrested on the charge
of assault and battery and fined in
police court, but the fine was never
paid. Later the child died, and Ross,
who was again arrested for man-
slaughter, set up the defense that he
had stood trial once and had been fined
and could not be tried again. Judge
Dellenbaugh decides that Ross must
stand trial for manslaughter. The attorneys for the defense noted an exception.

TWO BROTHERS SHOT.
They Demolish Refreshments at a Wedding Reception in Greene County, O.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 17.—John and Simon Hancock, brothers, both of
whom have been desperate men, have
been shot and mortally wounded at the
residence of Lane Hatfield, in Greene
county. Jacob Hatfield, who is a brother of Lane, had just been married, and was giving a reception.
After the table was set, the two Hancock boys entered the house and
got on the table and kicked the refreshments all over the room, whereupon the Hatfields, both of whom were armed,
drew their revolvers and fired. Simon
was shot four times, and John was shot and stabbed. They are not expected to live.

A Pensioner Stabs a Woman.

DAYTON, O., Sept. 17.—News has
just been received here that the other
night, while at the village of West
Alexandria, Preble county, John
Golden, a pensioner of this city, in a
drunken fury, attacked Mrs. Mary E.
King, whom he had accompanied from
here. He stabbed her 24 times with a
pocketknife and she is now lying in a precarious condition. Golden was at once arrested. Jealousy is alleged to have been the cause.

Set Aside the Sale.
COLUMBUS, Sept. 17.—The court at
Bucyrus has set aside the sale of the
Columbus, Sandusky and Hocking rail-
road, and ordered the road resold on
Oct. 19. The sale was set aside on the ground that the price was run up to an
excessive limit by an unauthorized bid-
der. The bondholders' committee bid
in the road at $1,100,000, when they
had expected to pay only $1,500,000.

Forger Lewis Writes a Letter.
COLUMBUS, Sept. 17.—Z. T. Lewis, the
bond forger, has given out a letter for publication. It was mailed at Dayton
and sent to Urbana, but does not dis-
close his whereabouts. The supposition
is that he mailed the letter to some friends in Dayton to be mailed from there.

church.

The new Catholic church building at Bethlehem settlement, near Bucyrus, was
dedicated.

Bessie Rouch, aged 4, had both legs and
her left arm cut off by a shifter on the Baltimore and Ohio road at Wooster, and

tiary for burglary on a one year sentence.

widow of Samuel F. Moss, killed at Car-
roll, Sept. 15, 1904, by a passenger train.

Thomas Schopp, a gardener, residing

her condition is serious. Schopp, who
was intoxicated at the time, was arrested.

Alfred D. Johnson, eldest son of W. D.
Johnson, the lumber merchant of Lima,
who was engaged in business with his father, was killed by a switch engine
of the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton
road, near their freight depot.

About 15 months ago Mr. Harry B. Van
Sickle of Toledo obtained a franchise for
an electric railway between Delaware and Cantonburg. Wealthy New York capitalists investigated the project and believing it to be a feasible one, will furnish all
the money necessary to go ahead at once
and build the road.

At Norwalk Reuben Turner, on behalf
of stockholders, has sued the officers of
the Sandusky, Milan and Norwalk Electric railroad. He alleges that they have obtained all their stock through fraud and that all the stock held by them be canceled and they enjoined. He claims they have secured an illegal bonus of $5,000
from the road.

BAD FOR DURRANT.

Witnesses Say He Was With Blanche Lamont on the Day of the Murder.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 17.—The ninth
week of the Durrant trial is now on.
Miss Lanigan, a fellow pupil of Blanche
Lamont at the normal school, has testified that April 3 when school was dismissed she left with Alice Pleasant,
now Mrs. Dorgan. They noticed
Blanche Lamont in company with a
man whom she identified as Durrant.
Mrs. Yogel, a new witness, told how
from her parlor window on the afternoon of April 3, she noticed a man who
waited about 45 minutes outside the normal school. Asked who the man was,
she pointed her finger toward Durrant
and dramatically exclaimed: "There he is."
When school was dismissed she saw two girls emerge from the building. Accompanied by Durrant
they boarded a Powell street car.

Mrs. James Crossett, the last witness,
had known Durrant well for four years.
The day Blanche Lamont was murdered,
she said she was riding on a Valen-
cia street car when she saw Durrant
sitting on the dummy with a young
woman whom she did not know.
Shown the clothes worn by Blanche Lamont at the time of her murder she said the woman she saw with Durrant
wore garments of similar cut and material. The pair rode on the dummy as far as Twenty-second street where they left the car, proceeding toward Bartlett street—Emanuel church is on Bartlett street between Twenty-second and Twenty-third.

FRED GRANT SPOKE.

He Addresses the Army of the Tennessee at Cincinnati.

HIS FATHER'S PLANS OUTLINED.
He Tells the General's Mode of Campaign
For Closing the War, Which Death Pre-
vented His Describing in His Memoirs
An Interesting Address.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 17.—The twenty-
seventh annual session of the Society
of the Army of the Tennessee is in
session here with an unusually large attendance. Over 100 officers of high rank are registered. The distinguished
visitors and their ladies have been accorded a reception at Fort Thomas, in
Kentucky, tendered by Commandant
Cochran and other army officers. General
D. B. Henderson reported $94,000
secured for the Sherman monument at Washington and $2,000 promised by
the G. A. R.

Colonel Fred Grant's annual address
was unusually interesting. It outlined General Grant's plan of campaign for
closing the war and described the order
in which General Grant would have
narrated the story in the second volume
of his memoirs, had his life been
spared. Upon being appointed lieutenant general, and assuming command,
General Grant had an interview with President Lincoln, who wanted some-
one to take the responsibility of action,
and call upon him for supplies, the
president pledging the full powers of the government in rendering all assistance possible. Said he:
"General Grant then planned movements for all of the armies to move at once. He regarded the army of the
James as the left wing, the army of the Potomac as the center, and the troops
operating under Sherman, of which
the army of the Tennessee was a most
important part, as the right wing, all
other troops being co-operative columns.
By continuously hammering against
the Confederate armies, he proposed to destroy both them and their sources of
supply."
Colonel Grant compared the movement of the army of the Potomac to
that of Napoleon in the Russian campaign, while the plan in reference to
the whole army resembled that adopted
by the allies in their campaign against France in 1813-14. He outlined how
the Confederates had concentrated their troops east of the Mississippi into the armies of Lee and Johnston, how General Grant placed himself with the
army of the Potomac, where the greatest opposition was expected, sent Sher-
man against Johnston, and Sheridan
through the Shenandoah valley.
On May 4 the Army of the Potomac
moved, and on May 6 all were moving.
By May 11 the Southern troops were
forced to act entirely on the defensive
and the Union lines had been considerably advanced. It was at the end of the first week of this campaign, that General wrote: "I propose to fight it
out on this line, if it takes all summer."
The second phase of this plan was to
keep the enemy within the besieged
cities, Richmond, Petersburg and Atlanta, and actively engage the outside
troops, to drive all the smaller commands to the south, to devastate the
country from which supplies were
drawn, and to destroy those who gathered these supplies.
Governor McKinley delivered an elo-
quent welcome for Ohio, and Mayor
Caldwell for Cincinnati. President
General Dodge responded.

SIX PEOPLE KILLED.

Fatal Railroad Crossing Accident in Virginia.

Vehicle Struck by a Train.

Five Occupants Killed Outright—A Young Girl Dies of Her Injuries Shortly Afterward—Railroad Officials Surprised, as the Track is Visible 200 Yards.

LYNCHBURG, Va., Sept. 17.—Six persons have been killed as a result of a railroad crossing accident at Lawyer's station, 117 miles below here. A vehicle containing six persons, supposed to be Joseph Callahan of Rustburg, Campbell county, Va., two women, a girl of about 16 and two small children, was crossing the tracks of the Southern railway when it was struck by the engine of No. 35 southbound passenger train. Five of the occupants of the vehicle were killed outright and the young girl was so severely injured that she died shortly afterwards.

The parties were unknown in the vicinity of the accident, and it was only with difficulty and some uncertainty that they were identified as the family of Mr. Callahan of Rustburg. The railroad officials are at a loss to understand how the accident occurred at the place named, as they say the track is visible for a distance of 200 yards or more, and the occupants of the vehicle should have been able to learn of the approach of the train.

The ball took effect in the woman's left breast near the shoulder. The physician can not tell yet what the result will be.

THE TILLMANS HAVE A TILT.

George D. Chides His Brother For Attacking His Defeated Enemy, Butler.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Sept. 17.—The proceedings of the constitutional convention have been characterized by a most exciting tilt between Senator Tillman and his brother, George D. Tillman, on the question of naming a new county. George D. Tillman at a previous session had succeeded in getting the county named Butler. Senator Tillman was absent at the time, and returning, he moved to change the name to Saluda. In a passionate speech he charged Senator Butler with being a traitor to the party, and said that to name a county after him was an insult to the reformers of the state. George D. Tillman, in reply, taxed his brother with fighting a man whom he had defeated, and dramatically striking his breast exclaimed, "Thank God there is no sentiment in my heart that would make me stoop so low."

The scene became extremely exciting and the convention was in wild confusion. Senator Tillman in his speech taunted Senator Irby with not replying to his brother, G. D. Tillman, and Irby in a hot speech denounced Tillman for stirring up strife in the convention and said it came with ill grace from a man to hound his fallen foe, and declared that Butler in patriotism, honesty and courage was the equal of Tillman or any other man in the state. When a vote was finally obtained, Senator Tillman carried his point, and the new county was named Saluda instead of Butler by a vote of 50 to 54.

The Origin of Cards and Chess.

One of the attractions of the Atlanta exposition will be specimens showing the early origin of chess and card playing. It will be exhibited by Stewart Culin of the University of Pennsylvania. He has sent 34 upright cases and one large table case containing the objects in a carefully arranged series showing the evolution of the games. They tell the history of cards and chess, beginning with the more primitive forms known and extending to the present day. Mr. Culin discovered a clue to the origin of games among the American Indians.

The pack of cards is shown to have originally consisted of a bundle of practical arrows, marked with the signs of the world quarters. The feathered part of these arrows, bearing comical marks, was first used in fortune telling, and from this use the card games arose. In America the Indians did not get beyond the use of carved and painted staves. The American case shows the practical arrows of the McClellan river Indians of California, marked with colored ribbons by which they were distinguished. Side by side with them are the gambling sticks of the Haidas of Vancouver's island, similarly marked with rings of color and used like cards in their gambling even at the present day. In the adjoining case, devoted to eastern Asia, the practice arrows of Korea are shown, and with them the derived playing cards, here made of oiled paper, yet bearing, both on the backs and faces, devices copied from the cut feathers of the arrows.

With them are Chinese cards with the same emblems surviving as markers or indexes at the ends. These cards are double headed, as indeed were the gambling sticks, carrying back the idea of the common playing cards with double heads and index marks to the most remote antiquity.

Richard Mansfield's Wasted Advice.

Oh, the ingratitude of actors! That is what Richard Mansfield feels and says just now. Mr. Mansfield is aggrieved and all on account of a young juvenile man, who applied to him for a position. This youth called upon Mr. Mansfield, and dared to sit in the room, awaiting him, with his hat on and a straw hat, too—a thing abhorrent to Mansfield. When the actor-manager entered the young man remained sitting. He did not attempt to remove his straw hat—the thing abhorrent to Mansfield. He stated his business, and then Mansfield let himself loose. "Young man," he said, "I cannot give you a position, but I will give you some good advice. When in the presence of people older than yourself it is in execrable taste to keep your hat on your head. I say nothing of it being a straw hat. Further, to sit as you are doing while I am standing is little less than unpardonable. But you are young. That is my advice to you. Good morning." The young man smiled and bowed himself out. Next day Mansfield received a brief note signed, "The young man to whom you gave advice." It said simply and elegantly, "You are the most ungrateful blackguard I have ever met." The actor-manager was shocked. The letter amazed him. He cannot understand why his good advice fell so flat.

Charles E. Blaney's New Plays.

Charles E. Blaney, one of the most successful of the American authors of "light" plays, will have two productions in New York during the latter portion of the season. One will be a four act comedy drama, entitled "The Electrician," in which a number of "novel effects" are announced. The other will be a spectacular farce comedy to be known as "A Coney Island Girl." The latter is probably the first play in which "shooting the chutes and bathing in a big tank of real water" are advertised as features.

The Bill Nye-Paul Potter Play.

Bill Nye and Paul M. Potter's brand new comedy, called "The Stag Party," is to have its first production Oct. 20 at the Park theater, Boston. Mr. Potter is still in Europe, tripping for Beerbohm Tree, and nobody knows when he is going to return. The new piece is to go into rehearsal at the end of the month.

The NEWS REVIEW is in receipt of a well written article detailing the circumstances surrounding the death of John Hollinger, at Clarkson, but as it is a week old, and this paper published a statement of the facts on the day of tragic happening, it found a resting place in the waste basket.

A disgraceful row occurred on a shanty boat last night the cause of the trouble being a young woman from Wellsville. Efforts were made to keep the matter very quiet, but it is known that a young man well known in certain circles had his lip cut by being hit with a plate.

A Beaver Falls man tried it on Saturday evening on a bet, and although he was only two minutes late, he could not find a shop that would admit him.

The city came near having a sensation recently. A young girl who claimed she had been deceived by a young man appeared at one of the law offices and talked of entering a serious charge against the false lover. She changed her mind and left, saying she would poison him instead. She evidently was in earnest, as she asked at a drug store for poison and received what she supposed was a deadly substance. She must have decided finally to end her life, as she took a big dose of the stuff and imagining that she was dying called a doctor. He found that it was all imagination. The druggist had been sick enough to give her a harmless powder.

What are Featherbone Corsets?

How are they different from other corsets? These are questions frequently asked us. To explain this correctly we must first state that the Featherbone corset people have a patent process of transforming the quills of feathers into an article for bone-lining corsets that has no equal. It is not affected by dampness or perspiration; is soft and pliable. You cannot break it. It will stand washing and takes readily to your form. The corset needs no breaking in, and with each one sold the manufacturers give a written guarantee that the corset will be satisfactory or your money will be refunded.

Featherbone Corset Waists.

No corset waist sold will equal it for fit and wear. It's the perfect shape and gives your form a perfect contour. It is not a high-priced waist. We have them with the buttoned front or with the steels, in both drab and white from 18s to 30s in sizes. Ask to see these corsets when in the store.

Thompson's Glove Fitting Corsets.

We keep a full line of these goods from $1.00 per pair up to $2.00, including their popular K. and L. brands at $1.00 and $1.25 per pair. We carry nothing but the best makes of corsets and have built up a big corset trade by always selling reliable goods.

WE BEAT SANDY STEELE

And the Board of Directors Employed Him as Director.

A GOOD MAN IN EVERY WAY

A Short Session of the Authorities of the Young Men's Christian Association Last Evening Resulted in the Election of William A. Rogers to the Place Vacated by J. T. Conkey.

The directors of the Young Men's Christian Association do not believe in delay, and the place of Mr. Conkey, the physical director who resigned because he wanted to attend college, has already been filled.

It did not require a great deal of time last night when the directors got together for them to decide upon a man, and they chose William A. Rogers, of Martin's Ferry. He came highly recommended, not alone by the people of the town in which he has resided, but by the state board who manifest great interest in his welfare. He will be here in 10 days at farthest, as soon as he can close his business affairs, and will take up work at the association rooms at once. Mr. Rogers is a good man, bearing the reputation of not only standing well in the gymnasium, but possessing the ability to win upon the field. He won the 100 yard dash against Sandy Steele at the tri-state field sports last week, and showed then that he is a thorough athlete.

SOME PEOPLE OBJECT.

They Want the Stores to Remain Open During the Evening.

"Do you know that there is a movement on foot to organize clubs for the purpose of buying goods in Wellsville and Pittsburgh," said a well known business man to the News Review today. "These people don't like to see the stores closed in the evening, and they will get goods if they can't buy them at home. I have heard that a wagon will soon be employed to make daily trips between here and Wellsville to deliver the goods they buy. I don't think the early closing idea is a good one."

AT HIS OLD TRICKS.

John Allison Has Again Emerged From Mystery.

John Allison, who is known far and wide because of numerous scrapes in which he has figured, has again been found, this time over the river. With an old wagon and a pair of decrepit horses he has set up a camp, and lives as nicely as when lost in the wilds of St. Clair township or perched on a hill in the West End. Recently he had a row with some of the people living over there, and they say that he will be compelled to leave if he does not behave himself. John is wanted here for an old fine.

HEARD THE WILD CAT.

It Has Moved a Few Miles Up the River.

A story comes from a farmer living across the river from Smith's Ferry, that the Chester wild cat has moved up the river. It was heard in that part of the country on Sunday night, and howled to its heart's content. The supposition that the animal is a panther is killed by the knowledge that panthers never lived in this section, and the supposition that it is a wild cat is born out by the statement that one was killed on the creek below Salsville half a dozen years ago.

NO MORE BANANAS.

Chief Gill Will Make a Few Arrests.

Chief Gill will not allow the selling of half rotten fruit on the streets from wagons, and the appearance of hucksters engaged in that particular branch will be a signal for an arrest. Much complaint was heard last night, and the opinion freely expressed that the health authorities should not allow the sale of dangerously decayed fruit on the streets.

Miss McIntosh Will Sing.

Miss Nancy McIntosh, the young lady who at one time resided in this city but has since won fame because of her excellent singing in London, will sing in Allegheny at Carnegie hall early in October. It will be the event of season in which society is interested, and in speaking of it a Pittsburgh paper says:

"Miss McIntosh comes home with the highest praise London critics can bestow, and one is safe in saying that she has fulfilled to the utmost the promises of her early girlhood."

A Big Audience.

If ticket selling is an indication, the production of "Charleston" at the Grand this week will be attended by large audiences. The tickets are selling rapidly, and a great crowd is expected. Children under 14 years will be admitted tomorrow night for 10 cents.

General Holloway's Funeral.

General Holloway was buried this afternoon at Columbiana, a large number of Grand Army men and Masons being in attendance. He was born near Columbiana in 1833, and was raised on a farm. In 1861 he enlisted in the army and took part in 54 battles, and was seriously wounded at Kenesaw mountain. He was successively promoted for bravery. In 1873 he was elected to the legislature and again in 1875. He was admitted to the bar in 1877, and has practiced law since that time.

Recovered the Box.

J. M. Mace, the stranger who was confronted by a supposed forged order at the freight depot when he called for a box yesterday, has found his box having recovered it from Expressman Doak. Doak had taken it out for a man named J. E. Mace, who refused to receive it, and then Doak kept it knowing that some one would soon call for it. The whole matter is the result of an error, and the principals are doing all they can to find who made the mistake.

Want a Policeman.

East End people have not given up hope of having an officer for their part of the city even though they did not get the road, and one resident in speaking of the matter today said that if it was necessary to have a little data before council would move he could easily provide a long list dealing with women who have been frightened by tramps and roosts that have been robbed of chickens, not to speak of the drunks who have insulted people on the streets.

Good health is a precious boon and those who enjoy it should preserve it at whatever cost. Libby's Phosphatic Beef, Iron and Wine is the great health preserving remedy, never failing tonic, strength and tissue producer and builder up of weak and debilitated women. Sold by first class druggists. Be sure you get Libby's. Don't be persuaded by any dealer to take something he will tell you is just as good—his object is to sell you some poor concoction upon which his profits are large. Go to some first class dealer or send $1 to us, Libby, McNeill & Libby, Union Stock Yards, Chicago, or send to Alvin H. Bulger, leading druggist, East Liverpool, O.

Some Go, Some Come.

May Toms moved with her household goods this morning to Trenton.

Mary Berdoff, for several years a resident of this city, moved to Allegheny today.

Harry Kerr has moved his household effects to Rochester.

Douglas Haynes, an employee of the Thompson pottery, has moved his family from Minerva to this city.

While in Chicago, Mr. Charles L. Kahler, a prominent shoe merchant of Des Moines, Iowa, had quite a serious time of it. He took such a severe cold that he could hardly talk or navigate, but the prompt use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy cured him of his cold so quickly that others at the hotel who had bad colds followed his example and half a dozen persons ordered it from the nearest drug store. They were profuse in their thanks to Mr. Kahler for telling them how to cure a bad cold so quickly. For sale by Alvin H. Bulger, Sixth and West Market street, druggists.

Cars Were Bunched.

Cars on the street railway were bunched last night and passengers were greatly put out because the trolley wire was down at Second street. After a time the break was repaired, and all was as well as it could be on the rickety old line. Superintendent Andrews went to Cleveland on business this morning.

The Order of Ohio directors are holding a meeting this afternoon. Attorney John McGarry, who has been acting as secretary, will be made permanent secretary of the order.

The Buckeye Building and Loan association which suspended payments on account of Democratic times have resumed.

Irving W. Larimore, physical director of Young Men's Christian association, Des Moines, Iowa, says he can conscientiously recommend Chamberlain's Pain Balm to athletes, gymnasts, bicyclists, foot ball players and the profession in general for bruises, sprains and dislocation; also for soreness and stiffness of the muscles. When applied before the parts become swollen it will effect a cure in one-half the time usually required. For sale by Alvin H. Bulger, Sixth and West Market streets, druggists.

A Broad Challenge.

The challenge of the Turners to play any team in the city a game of prisoner's base not being accepted, they have decided to make the same offer to any team in the county, the game to be played here, or on any ground suitable for the purpose.

BANKRUPTCY

—of the physical being is the result of drawing incessantly upon the reserve capital of nerve force. The wear, tear and strain of modern life are concentrated upon the nervous system. The young men of our day become sufferers from nervous debility or exhaustion, nervous prostration or weakness. This may be the result of too much mental worry and excitement, or the result of bad practices and excesses, or pernicious habits, contracted in youth, through ignorance. They feel irritable, weak and nervous with such distressing symptoms as headache, dizziness, shooting pains in head or chest, sometimes indigestion. The middle-aged men, as well, suffer from exhaustion, loss of manly power, low spirits, impaired memory, and many derangements of mind and body. The ill-used brain is morbidly wide awake when the overworked business man attempts to find rest in bed.

The physicians and specialists of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute devote their best energies to reclaiming and restoring such unfortunate to health and happiness. They have written a book of 168 pages, treating of these maladies and setting forth a rational means of home-treatment for their cure. It is sent securely sealed, in plain envelope, on receipt of 10 cents for postage.

A. M. Bailey, a well known citizen of Eugene, Oregon, says his wife has for years been troubled with chronic diarrhoea and used many remedies with little relief until she tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which has cured her sound and well. Give it a trial and you will be surprised at the prompt relief it affords. Twenty-five and 50-cent bottles for sale by Alvin H. Bulger, Sixth and West Market streets, druggists.

Getting Quiet.

The smallpox scare is subsiding at the towns down the river, and people are realizing that there will be no more danger provided the law is carried out, and the provisions arranged for quarantining the towns are observed. No new cases have appeared in Wheeling.

POE KNEW ARGON.

The Poet Wrote of the Third Constituent of the Atmosphere.

Will Lord Rayleigh and Professor Ramsay have to share the honor of "spotting" the third constituent of the atmosphere with Edgar Allan Poe? It certainly looks like it, if we consider the evidence adduced by a correspondent of a French journal, who has been dipping into the "Tales of Mystery and Imagination." The passage upon which this gentleman rests Poe's claims is contained in "The Unparalleled Adventure of One Hans Pfaill." It is worth while quoting it in full:

"I then took opportunities of conveying by night to a retired situation east of Rotterdam five iron bound casks, to contain about 50 gallons each, and one of a larger size; six tin tubes 8 inches in diameter, properly shaped and 10 feet in length; a quantity of a particular metallic substance, or semimetal, which I shall not name, and a dozen demijohns of a very common acid. The gas to be formed from these latter materials is a gas never yet generated by any other person than myself—or at least applied to any similar purpose. I can only venture to say here that it is a constituent of azote (nitrogen), so long considered irreducible, and that its density is about 37.4 times less than oxygen. It is tasteless, but not odorless; burns, when pure, with a greenish flame and is instantaneously fatal to animal life. Its full secret I would make no difficulty in disclosing, but that it of right belongs to a citizen of Nantes, in France, by whom it was conditionally communicated to myself."

It must be confessed that the mysterious gas evolved by the force of Poe's imagination has not a little in common with the argon, whose acquaintance we are now privileged to make some 50 years later. The "particular metallic substance or semimetal," used by Hans Pfaill, has its fellow in elvite, from which we have been led to understand argon has been extracted when treated with an acid, after the manner of the veracious Dutch balloonist. If the new gas is not precisely regarded as "a constituent of nitrogen," it has at least been declared by some to be an allotropical modification of it. No doubt the physical and chemical qualities of Edgar Allan Poe's gas are not exactly those of argon. But what of that? Instead, for example, of being 37 times lighter than hydrogen, argon, we understand, is very much heavier. It must be remembered, however, that Hans Pfaill had to make a journey to the moon. Had his gas been heavier, how could he have dropped a couple of ballast bags on the head of Mynheer Superbus Van Underdunk, and have disappeared above the clouds almost before the worthy burgomaster had recovered himself? The romancer, even when he is a man of science, must surely be allowed a little latitude with his chemistry. —Westminster Gazette.

He Denied the Call.

An English army officer tells an amusing story of an incident that occurred at Maidstone many years ago, in the time of the old cavalry depot. On a certain very foggy night there was a complete silence, broken only by the voices of the sentries who, at regular intervals, passed the usual word down the line. The officer woke up just as the usual watch was passing, and this was what he heard: First sentry, "No. 1, and all's well!" Then there was silence for a moment, and a voice called into the darkness, "No. 3, and all's well, and No. 2's asleep!" Before No. 4 could take up the thread of the proceedings a voice in which more than a suspicion of slumber remained cried hurriedly, "No. 2, and all's well, and No. 3's a liar!"
